Nixon Walks Among Rock Tossing Students

By DAVID F. BELNAP
United Press Staff Correspondent
LIMA, Peru (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today walked into a crowd of yelling, rock-throwing students and challenged them to "hear the truth."

A stone grazed his neck. Another rock thrown by a student struck Nixon's aide, Jack Sherwood, in the face and clipped a tooth. About 12 stones were hurled at the Nixon party from the edge of the crowd of shouting, whistling students as Nixon left his car and walked into the center of the mob.

An estimated 2,000 students and non-students were gathered in the park at the approach to the ancient San Marcos University waving signs that said, "Get out of here Nixon, shark," and "Go home, Nixon."

The vice president drove up to the milling crowd and stepped calmly from the convertible to challenge the students.

Clemency Favored for 5 Prisoners

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The state Pardon and Parole Board recommended executive clemency for five prison inmates on granted paroles to 35 others Wednesday.

Two of the paroles went to men who shot and killed their wives. They were W. F. Clements, 65, sentenced to 30 years in 1948 from Craighead county for killing his wife, Nellie, and Elmer Short, 50, sentenced to 21 years in 1952 in Benton county for shooting his wife, Hazel.

Factory Jobs Dip 270,000 in April Alone

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported today that manufacturing employment, which usually rises in the spring, dropped by 270,000 in April.

The report said manufacturing jobs fell to 15,100,000 in April. Manufacturing jobs in April declined 1,700,000 below the level a year ago. Most of the decline—1,400,000—came in the durable goods industries which produced autos, machinery and refrigerators.

"Severe employment cut backs continued in the automobile industry, with other large declines in steel mills and the machinery industries, particularly in plants producing industrial machinery," the report said.

The reversal of the usual spring trend was reported by the Labor and Commerce departments. The report indicated that the recession in the so-called durable goods industry worsened last month even though the nation's total unemployment went down.

Over time, hours of work and average weekly pay of factory workers all went down, the department said. The Commerce Department announced April 29 that total unemployment declined by 70,000 last month while employment rose by 600,000. It said at the time that the increased number of jobs was due to pickup in farming and other outdoor work. That drop in joblessness was the first since October, and reversed a five-month spiral which carried unemployment to a 16-year high.

The government said today, however, that in April the number of persons unemployed for 15 weeks or more rose by 450,000 to a new postwar high of 1,800,000. About 600,000 of this number were without jobs for six months or more, the government said.

Reforms Bills Considered by House Group

By UNITED PRESS
The House Labor Committee decided today to consider both welfare fund and general labor reform bills. But it set no date for the start of hearings.

The Senate already has passed a bill to regulate union health, welfare and pension funds. A Senate subcommittee is currently holding hearings on measures to curb union abuses.

The House committee agreed to set up a special subcommittee to consider the welfare bill. It directed a regular subcommittee to hold hearings "as soon as practicable" on the broader legislation.

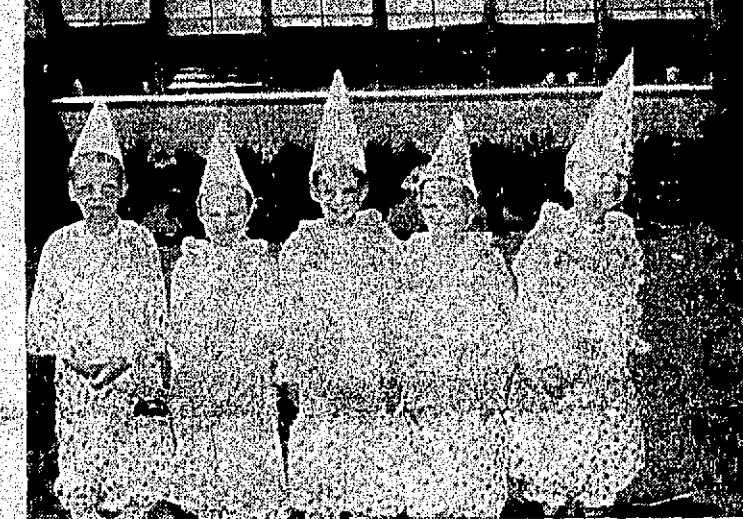

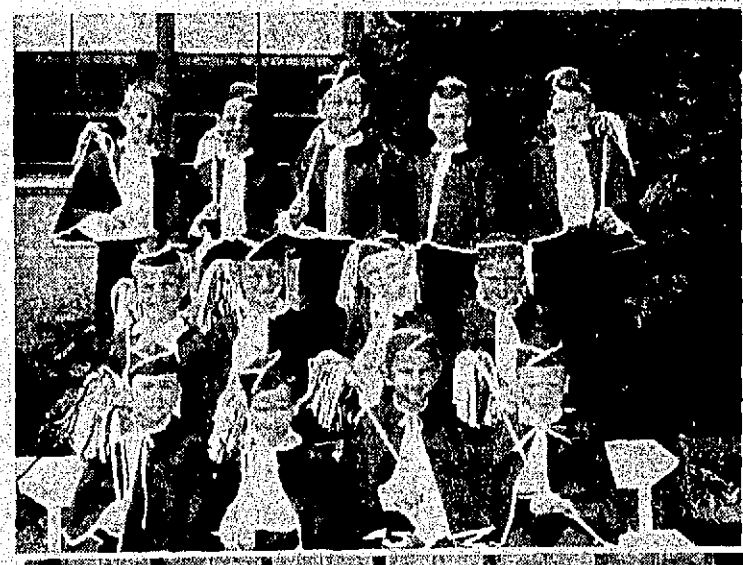

Republicans tried to tie the two measures together but were rebuffed. Al J. Hayes, president of the International Association of Machinists, told the Senate subcommittee today that any attempt to restrict union elections would be "unjust and dangerous."

Elsewhere in Congress: Defense Robert DeLoach, Defense Department general counsel, told the House Armed Services Committee that criticism of the defense reorganization plan does not warrant any change in the program. Some committee members fear the program could lead to a one-man military dictatorship.

Speaker Earl J. Macfarland, president of the Niagara Mohawk Power Co., Syracuse, N.Y., told Senate labor reform investigators he was "surprised" to learn that most of $93,000 he put up for labor magazine advertising went to an accused labor racketeer. Testimony developed that the alleged racketeer, Ben Lipson, erstwhile operator of the "New York Federationist," got $34,000 of the money.

McCaskill RCI Meets Friday Night

Tornado and civilian defense films will be shown Friday night at the regular monthly meeting of the McCaskill R. C. I. club, beginning at 7:30 in the community center.

The film "Tornado" was produced by the U. S. Weather Bureau and shows several actual tornadoes and what can be done to protect lives and property in the event a tornado strikes.

Another part of the program will consist of a talk and film on civil defense by George Bell of Hope, who is co-ordinator of civilian defense for District No. 4.

A third important part of the program will be carried out by M. Sgt. Luther E. Heivly of the Air Force who will award the McCaskill community a citation for its work in the Ground Observer Corps. A group of 30 McCaskill people have been invited by the Air Force to go to Shreveport, La., on Sunday, May 18, to visit the Ellier Center and the Barksdale Air Force Base during an area wide alert. The Air Force is furnishing a bus to take the group to Shreveport. Arthur Wimmell, president of the McCaskill RCI, extends an invitation to all residents of Regland township to attend the Friday night meeting. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting by the refreshment committee headed by Mrs. Gordon Prescott.

State Horse Show Gets Underway

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The $12,500 Arkansas State Horse Show was scheduled to open here tonight for a four-day run.

More than 500 horses from 28 states were entered in the competition, according to Art Schnipper, an official of the show. Proceedings of the event will go to the Arkansas Children's Colony at Conway. Construction on the new school for mentally retarded children started this week.

Reynolds Plant to Lay Off 300 Arkansans

MALVERN (UP)—A layoff of workers at the Reynolds-Metal Co. plant starting Sunday is expected to affect as many as 300 employees of the aluminum plant.

Joyce Pipkin, personnel manager of the Jones Mill Plant, said the reduction would help in an approximately 40 per cent production cutback to "carry out" the company's previously announced intention to bring the output of primary aluminum into balance with commercial requirements.

Pipkin said about 70 per cent of the company's total output was being absorbed by commercial demand. He said two of the company's five pot lines at the plant will be closed. About 1,200 workers are normally employed but only about 1,125 work there presently.

Sixty workers were laid off at Reynolds's Bauxite plant April 25, and 30 more workers were laid off in January at the Hurricane Creek plant.

Pipkin said "market conditions later in the year will determine whether there is a further cut-back or when full production will be resumed."

Cotton Crop Fixed at 10 Million Bales

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department today fixed the size of the 1957 cotton crop at 10,999,000 bales.

The value of the crop, based on the season average price to May 1 of 29.5 cents a pound, is about $1,019,000,000. This compares with the 1956 crop value of $2,113,000,000. The 1956 average price was 21.75 cents a pound. The 1957 crop estimate, based on actual ginnings, compares with production of 12,310,000 bales in 1956 and a 10-year average output of 12,669,000 500-pound bales.

GOP Nominee Is Injured in Wreck

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Donald D. Layne, a Little Rock civil engineer and one of two Republican nominees for governor, remained in "satisfactory" condition in a hospital today after his car struck a tree on U.S. Highway 87-70 near Benton Wednesday.

Attendants at Arkansas Baptist Hospital here said the 34-year-old Layne suffered a cerebral concussion, a laceration of the lower lip and jaw and a fractured nose. Deputy Sheriff James Bowers said Layne lost control of his car. He was alone in the vehicle.

Kentucky Is Threatened by High Water

By UNITED PRESS
A serious flood threat in eastern Kentucky was almost eliminated early today as the Big Sandy River crested and began dropping rapidly.

Officials said the river would fall quickly in the steep mountain valleys and with only light rain predicted for today most of the danger seemed over.

The river crested Wednesday night at partially flooded Prestonsburg and at Martin at about 42 feet—safely under the 45 feet expected.

Other flood water however threatened the Southeast and about 2,500 persons in four states had left their homes to take refuge on high ground.

Kentucky officials said all residents of low-lying areas had been evacuated. Flood-wise merchants in the area had hit in 1957 had moved goods to upper floors.

Helicopters from Ft. Knox, Ky., flew pumps into Prestonsburg where 25 stores were flooded and highway communication cut. Officials said most roads were expected to be open by tonight.

Strike in Auto Industry Seems Likely

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER
United Press Automotive Editor
DETROIT (UP)—The Big Three auto companies and the United Auto Workers put contract negotiations on an overtime schedule today with a possible strike deadline for 600,000 workers little more than three weeks off.

General Motors Corp. and the UAW, their contract expiring May 29, announced that they will meet seven days if necessary from now on. Both Ford and Chrysler, whose contracts expire June 1, agreed with the union to meet at least five days a week from here out.

Negotiators still operated under a news blackout agreement. This ban on public disclosure on bargaining was asked by the union last week five days after it had ended the blackout.

However, the union asked that the secrecy agreement be reviewed May 15, indicating it may make a new announcement then on its bargaining program.

There were some favorable developments for the negotiators to consider. The announcement of the first settlement in the West Coast aircraft contract bargaining Wednesday drew some comment. At General Motors, negotiations are awaiting return of UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock from these aircraft negotiations.

Ward's Automotive Reports, leading industry statistical agency, reported Wednesday that the inventory of unsold new cars was trimmed by 35,000 in April.

Federalized Guards to Leave Central High on May 29, Ike Orders

Faubus Doubts the Troops Will Be Removed

By LLOYD HOLBECK
United Press Staff Correspondent

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that withdrawal of troops from Central High School would mark the end of "a tragic occurrence" in the history of the state and the nation, but indicated he doubted the troops would be removed.

"The withdrawal of federal troops from Central High School, if carried out, will mark the end of a tragic occurrence in the history of Arkansas and the republic of which it is a part," Faubus said.

He added, however, he would "not bet any money" that the troops would be withdrawn May 29 as President Eisenhower ordered today.

The president's statement from Washington climaxed nine months of strife at Central High School, where nine Negro students marched into classrooms last September under guard of the elite 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Ky. At the time, Eisenhower had federalized the Arkansas National Guard, taking it from control of the governor. Faubus had used the guard two weeks earlier to prevent the Negroes from entering the school.

No Comment
Meanwhile, two other principals in the drama had no comment on the president's action. Little Rock School Superintendent Virgil T. Blossom said he knew of the order "early this morning," but declined comment. Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also refused to comment.

Faubus said for the past nine months, troops of the federal government have been patrolling the corridors and grounds of a locally owned public institution which is supported by local and state funds.

"The federal government, which contributes nothing toward the support or maintenance of this locally owned public school, has exercised control and domination of the school's activities through the power of its armed troops," Faubus said.

"Both students, teachers and visitors have been subject to the orders of these armed troops at all times. The federal troops should never have been assigned to such a mission as they have performed in Little Rock," Faubus said.

He said he hoped that "never again will any national administration embark on such an unwise and illegal invasion of powers of state and local governments."

States Not Charged
"I wish to point out that state and local authorities are charged with the enforcement of state laws and local ordinances. They have never been and are not now charged with enforcement of federal laws or orders," Faubus said.

He cited co-operation between the state and federal governments in liquor law enforcement as an example.

QUACHITA COLLEGE, students, directed by Dr. J. T. Luck, will present a musical program at First Baptist Church at 7:15 Monday night. The event is sponsored by the Brotherhood organization of the church and will follow a 6:30 p. m. supper.

Featured will be Miss Sue Plumlee, Hot Springs sophomore, and outstanding harpist and Eugene Handford Taylor, musical instructor and part-time student who received his bachelor degree in music from Converse College of South Carolina.

President Eisenhower last Sept. 24 ordered 10,500 federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen and 1,000 regular Army troops from the 101st Airborne sent in to keep order at the school.

By Nov. 27, the regular Army forces had been withdrawn entirely, the number of guard troops reduced to 950 men in a series of four reductions. Then, on Dec. 18, Brucker ordered the National Guard troops again reduced to 432.

Board Asks Suspension of Integration

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Little Rock School Board asked the Federal District Court Wednesday to allow it to suspend its gradual integration plan until January, 1961.

The school board, in view of the crisis last fall after nine Negroes integrated Central High School, asked Feb. 20 for a delay, but at the time did not mention a specific date or how long a delay was wanted.

April 28, Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope ordered the board to amend its petition for the delay and told it to specify how long a postponement it sought. Lemley also challenged the board to prove statements it made that "almost daily incidents" and "unrest" had made it "difficult for teachers to teach and for pupils to learn."

The board said it selected January, 1961, because the members agreed the plan of integration could be more easily carried out at mid-term than at the start of the fall term. Also, the date they chose would be shortly after Gov. Orval Faubus leaves office, should he be elected to a third term.

However, the board said the factor of the governor's term of office did not enter into selection of the date.

The board deleted from its original petition a portion which charged the federal government had not helped the school district to make integration succeed. Judge Lemley, in a hearing April 28, told the board this had no bearing on the case.

Judge Lemley will hold a hearing June 2 to determine if the request for the delay will be granted.

FOUNDATION WINS REFUND
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Samuel H. Kress Foundation won a $1,353,281 income tax refund Wednesday in the U.S. Court of Claims. The New York department store magnate sued for the refund before his death in 1955. Kress willed his estate to the foundation.

Question Is Will They Return at Next Term?

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today ordered withdrawal of federalized National Guard troops still remaining at Central High School in Little Rock, Ark.

The President's order was relayed by Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker to Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commanding officer at Little Rock, by telephone about 11:15 a. m. e.d.t.

The troops have been stationed at Central High School since last September to enforce a racial integration order by U. S. District Court.

In a statement, the President said he was withdrawing the troops as of May 29. He said there would be "no further present need for the guardsmen" at the school because its summer recess starts May 28.

The President expressed hope that local officials and citizens would "assume their full responsibility and duty for seeing that the orders of the Federal Court are not obstructed" and that it would not be necessary to put federal troops back at the school.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that, as far as he knew, there had been no consultations between the President and other administration officials and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas in advance of today's order.

President Eisenhower last Sept. 24 ordered 10,500 federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen and 1,000 regular Army troops from the 101st Airborne sent in to keep order at the school.

By Nov. 27, the regular Army forces had been withdrawn entirely, the number of guard troops reduced to 950 men in a series of four reductions. Then, on Dec. 18, Brucker ordered the National Guard troops again reduced to 432.

Johnson Says Troops Will Not Return

CROSSETT (UP)—Former state Sen. Jim Johnson said today he does not believe President Eisenhower will return troops to Little Rock's Central High School next fall.

Johnson said he was not surprised by the President's order today for the federalized National Guardsmen to leave the school effective May 29, the day after school is out.

It would be foolish, he said, for the troops to remain and guard an empty building.

"The segregationist leader repeated his stand that sending the troops was illegal under the U.S. Constitution," he said. "He didn't think the President would send them again, because there's no mistake how the people of Arkansas felt."

Johnson said he did not think the withdrawal would have any effect on his proposed state Constitutional Amendment, which would close integrated schools unless local residents approved the desegregation.

necessary. He said there is still a chance of the legislature being called into session this summer. "We will simply wait and see what develops," Faubus said.

He said he would not attempt to predict whether Eisenhower would attempt to send troops back to school next fall.

Depends Upon Advice
"It depends upon who is advising him at the time," Faubus declared.

He said he learned of the president's order from the press.

"You people have always been my best source of information, even in dealings with the federal government," Faubus said.

Meanwhile, Gen. Edwin A. Walker, chief of the Arkansas Military District, said withdrawal of troops would be carried out "as indicated."

He did not indicate if the president's order called for de-federalization of the Arkansas Quartermaster, 420 of whom were still subject to duty at the school. A spokesman for the Military District said, however, that it was "presumed" the Guardsmen would return to their normal status.

Faubus Asks for Arkansas Flood Relief

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)— Gov. Orval Faubus said today he has asked the federal government for $2,000,000 in aid for flooded Southern Arkansas.

Faubus said the figure is tentative and probably will be changed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration which will send investigators to determine damage.

"The two million includes damage to roads, bridges, levees, and cities — there were some cities hit by the flood," Faubus added.

He said practically every county in the southern half of the state suffered some sort of flood damage.

The telegram and a letter supporting the request, which went to the CDA regional office at Denton, Tex., were drafted by Owen Payne, state civil defense director. Payne met with Faubus Tuesday to report on the extent of flood damage.

Payne's office said $15,000 was spent in state funds to pay the 400 National Guardsmen and health department employees called out to fight Bayou McKinney near Garland City. Guardsmen were on duty at the levee on the bayou for a week, in a successful fight to keep the flood waters from spilling over the levee and inundating 60,000 acres of land. About 70,000 acres were flooded in the vicinity.

A spokesman for the National Guard office here said units in south central Arkansas were on an alert today in case Bayou Bartholomew continues to rise.

Local governments spent about $150,000 on the fight against the water, the state civil defense spokesman said.

Parvian security officials were with Nixon in the noisy crowd, as well as his translator, U.S. Army Lt. Col. Vernon Walters. Both Nixon and Walters shouted to the police. "Don't push, don't push."

Nixon said later he did this to avoid the possibility that someone in the mob might be hurt by overzealous efforts of the police to protect him.

Nixon ignored previous warnings that his appearance before the Communist-instigated students might cause a violent anti-American demonstration.

Nixon pushed into the crowd that closed around him, shaking hands where he could and beckoning others to come closer.

"Come and speak," he said. "Let me talk to your leaders."

Nearby students shouted at him: "Go home, Go home."

"Sure, I'll go home," Nixon said, "but don't you want to hear the truth first?"

Try to Protect Him
Earlier, the vice president himself had cancelled his plans to visit San Marcos because of the possibility that the Communist students might provoke a violent riot.

It was not immediately known why Nixon changed his mind. U.S. Secret Service agents and War's said new car stocks on May 1 totaled 610,000, a sizeable 38-day supply.

But this supply is eight days less than the 66-day supply on hand March 1. It is equal to the number of cars on hand last year and is 92,000 fewer cars than were on hand May 1, 1956.

Any reduction of new car inventories presumably would make the companies more eager to sign contracts and build cars this summer. While unsold cars represent a two-month supply, plants could shut down June 1 and stay closed until 1958 model changeover dates three months later.

Pullman Co. Lays Off 1700 Employees

CHICAGO (UPI)— The Pullman Co. has announced it will dismiss 1,750 workers employed on the New York Central System effective June 30.

Pullman said the men would be laid off because New York Central plans to take over servicing of sleeping cars on its road beginning July 1. Pullman had been servicing the cars since 1949.

George W. Bohannon, president of Pullman Co., said Wednesday night the layoff would affect 1,000 maintenance, clerical and administrative employees, 600 porters and 150 conductors.

New York Central spokesman said the line decided to end its contract with Pullman as an economy move. They said the road had offered jobs to about 100 porters working out of Chicago.

A. Phillip Randolph, New York, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said the union could do nothing about protecting the members' job rights since "we have no contract with the New York Central."

An official of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen said the union had conferred with New York Central about taking on some of the laid

Thousands Flee in Wake of Flood Water

By UNITED PRESS

Nearly 3,000 persons fled to higher ground to escape floodwaters that threatened to swamp four states in the Southeast quarter of the nation today.

Another 2,500 awaited warnings from Army engineers as thunderstorms and scattered showers struck across the Mississippi Valley and into Kentucky.

Scattered flooding was predicted by weathermen in the Carolina lowlands in the wake of recent rains, but the forecast for the area was fair.

In eastern Kentucky, the U.S. Weather Bureau warned that the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River was to reach a crest of 45 feet today, several feet below records set in disastrous floods in 1957.

More than a score of business establishments in Prestonburg, Ky., were flooded and about 2,000 persons in the area were hustled to high ground. Another 700 fled from Paintsville and officials warned half the town's population of 5,000 may have to evacuate by nightfall. Martin, Ky., also was endangered.

Gov. A.B. (Happy) Chandler ordered out National Guard units and asked the Army at Ft. Knox to fly pumps into Prestonburg.

The Red River in northeast Louisiana, meanwhile, continued to rise and officials said a 120-mile strip along the river faced possible additional flooding. Already, 70,000 acres were under water, and crews worked on levees at Shreveport and East Port. The entire population of East Port, 205 persons, was evacuated.

Scattered showers fell from the western Great Lakes region southward through the mid-Mississippi Valley, while a similar weather pattern prevailed over the entire Rockies chain.

Hailstones the size of eggs fell in the vicinity of Pueblo, Colo., for the only other weather activity in the nation.

BUILDING REPAIRS

Many people have asked me recently, what does the heavy construction equipment mean that was moved to our building last week. I would like to tell you, it is to enlarge our building for more telephone equipment, but that's not the case. You see we thought we were building a good building on a good foundation and spent a lot of money doing so. Nevertheless the foundation is giving us trouble and we are having cracks developing in some of the walls and floor. To remedy this we have let a contract to sink more pilings around the entire outside wall to stop the settling and then we can repair the walls and floor.

This project may inconvenience you some if you come to the office to pay your bill, or on any other business, since we will need to do some extensive work right at the front door, but we will do everything we can to keep things as normal as possible.

MOTHER'S DAY REMINDERS

Sunday, May 11, will be Mother's Day. Unfortunately, we all won't be able to drop in and wish our Mother a "Happy Mother's Day." The next best thing — as I see it — is to call her on the telephone.

Lots of sons and daughters call home on Mother's Day. That's why I suggest that you place your call early and call by number, in that way you'll avoid delay.

And while we're talking about Mother's Day, if you're still in doubt about an appropriate gift, why not give her an extension telephone — in color. A beautiful telephone in color will be the thing in her kitchen or bedroom — and they save so many needless steps.

SCHOOL WILL BE OUT SOON

And that's a good reason for all of us to be extra careful about our driving habits. The safety slogan, "Drive slow, let 'em grow," takes on added importance during the summer months.

Here at the telephone company we teach a method of driving called "defensive driving." And the idea behind it is very simple — don't keep worrying about your rights or the road, spend more time thinking about what the other fellow is going to do.

That seems to me to be pretty good advice. It will help make sure all our youngsters are around to go back to school next fall.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Henderson Leads Way in the AIC

ARKADELPHIA (UP)—Henderson State College led the way Wednesday in qualifying men for the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference track meet by placing 17 men in the meet.

Hendrix entered 15, Arkansas Tech 14, and Arkansas State Teachers 12. Ouchitua had five men qualify and Arkansas A&M just one.

The meet was to start today. Hendrix's Dave Tenenge missed the record in the 220-yard dash by four-tenths of a second. His time 21.9. And Jerry Jefferies, also of Hendrix, ran the 120-yard hurdles in 15.0, six-tenths of a second off the record.

It has been estimated that 54 million people visit the U. S. national parks every year.

DOROTHY DIX

Bachelor Girls Deny They're "Old Maids"

Dear Dorothy Dix: Will you settle an argument for the girls in my office? One girl claims the term "bachelor girl" refers to an unmarried mother. The rest of us contend that any single girl can use the term, and most prefer it to "old maid."

THIRXIE
Dear Thirxie: As usual, the majority wins. Girls threw away the designation "old maid" years ago. Since then unmarried women have been variously known as spinsters, career girls, and more recently, bachelor girls. It seems to me the trend now is to discard any fancy names and come right out with "single girl." The female sex has grown beyond the need for being big. The single state is an honored one, and no one is disgraced by being in it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 19 years old and have recently met a charming young lady who is to enter college next fall. I love the girl and want to marry her but can't wait four years until she finishes school. Would it be right for me to interfere? She has dated other boys so how can I be sure she loves me?

PUZZLED
Dear Puzzled: The question of the young lady's college education seems to be a matter for her to decide with her parents. I sincerely doubt if your interference would have much effect. Assess your own feelings after she's been away at school for a while, and see if you still love her.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I don't agree with some advice you recently gave a husband whose wife would not make dessert. You told him to learn to bake himself. Now I think that's his wife's job and he should not have to do his own cooking. His wife should bake and take delight in seeing the surprise on his face when she puts cake fresh from the oven, on the dinner table.

G. S.
Dear G. S.: Don't you think a flexibility in domestic arrangements is good now and then? Lots of men take extreme pleasure in cooking, and many wives can do home repairs with the best of men. There's no disgrace in invading each other's fields occasionally. Not all women are first class cooks or bakers. Surely it isn't going to hurt a husband to experiment in a kitchen occasionally and it does give a bit of variety to the domestic life that often becomes monotonous. I heartily agree with you about the quality of home baked products but their production is a special talent not given to everyone.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Although I've been going with Dave for over a year, I've never met his mother (his father is dead). I met his sister through school but Dave seems determined that we should not get too friendly.

ELSLIE
Dear Elsie: You asked for a personal answer, then, forget to give me your last name. Obviously I can't write to you without knowing where to send the letter. Apparently there's something in Dave's family life that he's trying to keep from you. Silly, perhaps, but a very, very human trait notwithstanding. Talk seriously to him about the situation. Let him know that you're an understanding person and, in the light of your growing friendship, you are quite prepared to learn anything — and take it! It may be a small thing like his mother being a poor cook; or it may be something serious connected with his dad. He may need sympathy. Don't fail him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a girl friend with whom I can have no fun. She doesn't like boys, doesn't dance or like shows. At school she is so modest it's pitiful. She's very smart and won't admit it. If I get a "B" on a test I brag my head off; she doesn't say a word when she has all "A's." I can't break up our friendship for I've known her all my life. PEBBIE

Dear Pebbie: Like the man said, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." Since you can't get your girl friend to conform to your ways, learn some of her ways. Believe me, it will be to your advantage. In time she'll come to like the social arts.

Send your problem to Dorothy Dix. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her care of this newspaper.

Charges 'Fixer' Diverted Union Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators charged today that Ben Lapensohn, a former Philadelphia "fixer," diverted $156,000 that should have gone to the New York State Federation of Labor.

Two staff members of the Senate Rackets Committee said Lapensohn was to run the State Federationist, a magazine, in return for 75 per cent of the receipts.

But Robert Dunne and Charles E. Wolfe said a check of Lapensohn's bank accounts showed that $167,000 in checks made out to the federation were deposited and only $11,000 was actually forwarded ed to the labor organization's Albany, N.Y., headquarters. Eleanor Lefkowitz of Flushing, N.Y., Lapensohn's former office manager, said he had an agreement to send all receipts to Albany where his 75 per cent share would be figured and returned to him.

But she said Lapensohn told her in 1953 to deposit certain checks in a special New York State Federalist bank account instead of forwarding the money to Albany. She said rubber stamps were bought to endorse the checks made out to the labor organization so they could be deposited in the special account.

Miss Lefkowitz, who worked for Lapensohn from 1949 through 1957 testified that he also told her to hold up some cash payments to the publication. She said the payments, ranging from $20 to $1,000 each, were put in her safe "and sometimes when I returned from lunch the money was gone." She

Taxpayers Organization Is Planned

PORT SMITH (UP)—An automobile dealer and former mayor of Port Smith today revealed plans to organize the Arkansas Taxpayers' Association.

H. R. (Happy) Hestand said the club would "help taxpayers stick together and keep them posted on their rights."

Hestand charged that Arkansans were "laboring under probably the biggest and most unfair tax burden of all time." He said the Taxpayers' Association would "fight additional high taxes, although not to the point of backing political candidates who advocate cutting taxes."

Hestand said the nucleus of the organization planned to hire a legal staff and civic officers in "about a month." He said a state headquarters would be opened in the Pyramid Life Building in Little Rock.

Little League Tryouts to Be Held on Monday

Weather permitting, Little League tryouts will be held at the Little League Baseball Park next Monday afternoon immediately after school.

If any more rain falls between now and Monday, it is very doubtful if tryouts can be held as the field is pretty well soaked now. In the event of more rain, an announcement will be made later concerning the tryouts.

Any boy in the county, between the ages of 8 to 12 will be permitted to try out. If a boy reaches his 13th birthday before August 1, 1958, he will not be eligible but may try out for the Pony League. All boys who try out and are brought on a Little League Team will get to play baseball in the Junior's League. All boys trying out should bring with them a glove and a school record or birth certificate certifying their age. School records must be signed by the principal of the school that the player attends.

If a boy is unable to get a school record or birth certificate before Monday, he may try out but must have this proof of age before playing in his first game.

Boys trying out are asked to please sit down in the stands outside the playing field and remain seated until your name is called. Everyone will be given a fair trial and everyone trying out will get to play on some team. All boys who intend to play are urged to be present for the tryouts.

Little League rules state that a player must be present for tryouts in order to be eligible for league play unless he has a valid excuse such as sickness or injury etc.

State Farm Prices Show an Increase

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The index of prices received by Arkansas farmers advanced 3.6 per cent from mid-March to mid-April, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

Cotton advanced 4.9 per cent, oil-bearing crops 4.1 per cent, meat animals 3.3 per cent, and food grains 1.9 per cent. On the downside were dairy products of 2.3 per cent, and poultry and eggs off 9.2 per cent. Feed grains and hay were unchanged.

The price of beef cattle in mid-April was the highest since December, 1952, the prices of calves the highest since September, 1952, and the price of hogs the highest since September, 1954.

Brown Knocks Out Dupas in the 8th

By CHARLES E. WEBB
United Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Ring-wise Old Joe Brown, $12,000 richer for his cunning in scoring an eighth round technical knockout over flashy Ralph Dupas in a title fight Wednesday night, made new plans today to decimate the lightweight ranks.

Brown said he would fight Keny Lane, Muskegon, Mich., next. No date has been set for the bout but Brown has posted a $5,000 bond that he would meet Lane.

The champion successfully defended his title for the fourth time, by calmly waiting for his opening and then turning into a furious fighting machine that sent Dupas to the canvas three times before the fight was stopped at 2:21 of the eighth.

"I knew I had him when I saw I could maneuver him in the corners pretty much as I wanted to," Brown said in his dressing room after the bout.

Brown, 31, said it was a good left to the body that set up the 22-year-old Dupas to ride the kill. Then a hard right cross sent Dupas to the canvas for the first in a series of three knockdowns.

For Dupas it was only the second time that he had been stopped in a career that began when he "just added a few years" and started fighting at 14. He said he didn't know what punch it was that caught him.

Slightly more than 1,000 persons, near capacity in the Sam Houston Coliseum, turned out for the fight and paid $68,740, radio and television added approximately $30,000 to the gate to make it the richest fight ever staged in Texas.

Brown's cut of the approximate $90,000 net was 40 per cent. Dupas got 20 per cent. Both are from New Orleans.

Brown stalked his man, plodding after his fleet opponent. Dupas saw an early lead start slipping in the fifth when Brown's body punches slowed the contest from a fast opening. The champion took over in the sixth and in the seventh took complete command.

At the opening of the eighth, Brown drove Dupas to a corner and opened up with a furious onslaught that sent the challenger to the canvas. Dupas was up at a count of nine, but another bar-

What Happened to Jo Jo Moore?

By UNITED PRESS

Joe Moore, fleet and sure-handed outfielder on three National League championship clubs of the New York Giants in the 1930's, was noted as a fly-chaser but he could hit almost as well as field. In 12 major league seasons, he compiled a healthy lifetime average of .294. And in the 1937 World Series against the Yankees, when the Bombers swept it 4-1, Moore hit a resounding .391 in defeat. He played left field on the 1933, 1936 and 1937 league champs and continued until 1941 when he hit .276 in 131 games.

Whatever happened to Jo Jo Moore? Today, at 49, he has a ranch outside his native Glasse, Tex.

Mickey Vernon Doing Well for and Oldtimer

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The "old men" still are cutting a wide swath in sports and another case in point today is Mickey Vernon, the "quiet man" of the American League.

Vernon has hit better than .300 only four times in a 17-year major league career. Two of those times, while with Washington, he won the American League batting crown.

And right now the man who has obtained by Cleveland only as first base insurance behind Vic Wertz is nailing the ball at a fast 400 clip.

The six foot, two inch Vernon is only carrying out the new sporting precept that life begins at 40, or in that approximate neighborhood. There was a time when your athlete was ready for the muscular boneyard when he passed 35. But not any more.

Oldsters Wins Titles

As examples of the Ponce de Leon movement, a couple of old golfers named Ted Williams and Stan Musial walked off with the League batting championships last season. Williams, at 40, hit .318 and the 38-year-old Musial batted .351.

Musial, incidentally, has a 111 stopped yet. He's still leading the pack in the new season with a fantastic .529 average.

Meanwhile, in other sports it's the same story. Ancient Archie Moore, who is anywhere from 42 to 44 years of age, still reigns as the light heavyweight champion of the world and last Friday just for kicks took on and whooped a heavyweight.

In golf, the youngsters are surging forward but the old guard hasn't called it a day yet. Pete Cooper, 43, won the Seminoles Pro-Am and 39-year-old Tommy Bolt just walked off with the Colonial Invitational.

Spreads Hitting Binges

Which strips the case of Mickey Vernon of much overdue amazement, except for the fact that the lanky first baseman spreads his big hitting binges over so many years.

Back in 1946 he led the American League with a .353 mark and then they called him a "cheese chameleon" when he dropped off to .265 the next season. It was a good destination. Cheese improves with age. So while he didn't touch .300 again for six long years.

So what happened? He dropped off to .200 the following season and hasn't been a title threat since that time. Last year, as a parttime operative with the Red Sox, Mickey batted only .241.

When trader Frank Lane took over as Cleveland's general manager this season he obtained the 40-year-old Vernon as a relief man who could step in and rest Wertz on occasion. But Wertz broke his ankle in a spring training and will be out until Aug. 1. Maybe if Vernon keeps going as he is, even longer.

Reference Jimmy Webb stepped in to stop the punishment just as Brown scored once more with a terrific left hook.

Tentative Plans Made for City Softball League

In a meeting at the City Hall courtroom Tuesday night, a group of interested men and boys discussed the organization of a new city softball league.

This league would consist of boys over the Pony League age limit and any men in town who would like to play. As the present set up exists, if a 4-team league were formed, each team would play 3 times every two weeks. This is to prevent interference with the present Little and Pony League organizations.

The group would like to impress on the players concerned that this will be no fast league that will exclude the mediocre players. It is to be a league for anyone regardless of ability, that is interested in playing softball.

A rule was discussed that would prevent any one pitcher from pitching in two consecutive games. This would keep a team with a "red hot" pitcher from burning up the league if such a pitcher should turn up.

High School boys interested should contact David Watkins. Others should contact L. B. Tooley, Roy Taylor, Jamie Russell or Charles Gough. Everyone interested should contact one of the above or be present at a second meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, May 13th.

All Cardinals Are Cold But Stan the Man

ST. LOUIS (UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today were idle after dropping their seventh straight game Wednesday night, 9-2, to the Milwaukee Braves.

The Redbirds were held to only five hits by Lew Burdette, but Stan Musial collected three of them to bring himself, to within only seven of the magic 3,000 mark. It was also the 17th consecutive game in which "The Man" has hit safely.

Musial gave the Redbirds their only run in the third when he doubled with two men on. He also had a double in the first and led off the ninth with a single, ending the game with a formidable .529 batting average for the season.

Bob Hazel of the Braves was struck on the head by a pitched ball by Cardinal reliever Larry Jackson in the first inning. He was carried on a stretcher from the field and taken to Jewish Hospital, where physicians said he had suffered no fracture or serious injury. He will remain at the hospital for two or three days for observation.

Lozier Herm Wehmeier lasted only one third of an inning before Jackson came in. Three other Cardinal pitchers tried to stop the Braves' onslaught, but to no avail.

The Cardinals will try to snap out of their slump Friday night when they play the Chicago Cubs here.

DOPING BRINGS SUSPENSION

LINCOLN, R.I. (UP)—Trainee James P. Foti of Yonkers, N.Y., and Orlando Massarelli of Medford, Mass., and groomer Earl Gilpatrick of Derry, N.H., and Francis W. Pendleton of Providence, R.I., were suspended Wednesday by Lincoln Downs officials after tests showed horses they handled had been doped.

The horses, Big Patricia and Pilot Model, won races here on May 1.

Man who could step in and rest Wertz on occasion.

But Wertz broke his ankle in a spring training and will be out until Aug. 1. Maybe if Vernon keeps going as he is, even longer.

Reference Jimmy Webb stepped in to stop the punishment just as Brown scored once more with a terrific left hook.

Yenger Music Department
Observing National Music Week
This week, May 4th-11th, marks the 35th anniversary of National Music Week. This annual observance began in 1924 and was started by Charles M. Tremain who at that time was director of the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music.

The students of music at Yenger High have learned to think of music as the fourth need of man, and have joined in the weeks campaign for wider participation in music and the more general enjoyment of listening to it.

Posters and essays have been posted on the following subjects: "Music — Its Value and Power," "The Functions of Music," "The Three B's in Music," "The Musical Twins — Opera and Oratorio," "Music in America," "The Spirituals," and "Negroes in Music."

Special music will be rendered during the assembly hour Friday, May 9th at 11:20 a.m. terminating the week's observance. "Arthur Newton" will sing "Without a Song" by Vincent Youmans; Charles Daniel will sing "To A Wild Rose" by MacDowell; and the chorus will sing two folk songs "How Old Are You" and "Kathryn's Wedding" Dorothy Lawson, reporter.

EDMONTON (UP)—Gene Calame, former University of Oklahoma quarterback, signed his 1959 contract with the Edmonton Eskimos of Canada's Western Football Conference Wednesday. Calame, a native of Sulphur, Okla., stands 5-10 and weighs 175 pounds.

Routine as Men Go Into Air 8 Miles

EAST DUBUQUE, Ill. (UP) — A balloon carried two men eight miles high, landed on Joe Averkamp's farm and barely ruffled the daily routine.

Mrs. Averkamp didn't even leave the six room frame house to greet the spacemen, but she stayed at the window long enough to delay cleaning up the breakfast dishes.

Averkamp, 57, operates an 80-acre farm eight miles east of here. He spotted the balloon descending with two Navy scientists in the gondola while doing chores at about 7:00 a.m. c.d.t.

On U.S. 20 in front of the farm an ambulance and a cavalcade of vehicles followed the balloon's progress.

The farmer ran to the scientists as they stepped from the open basket into his hayfield about 100 yards from the house. Medical personnel bundled the scientists off before Averkamp had a chance to invite them in, his wife said.

A puncture deflated the balloon with a "pop like a little child's balloon." Mrs. Averkamp reported, and the equipment was taken away.

Averkamp then took his truck to a neighbor to pick up a load of hogs for market across the river in Dubuque, Iowa.

His son, Eldon, 25, went off to his job as a woodworker, and a daughter, Evelyn, 16, went off to school.

"I hope they got there on time," Mrs. Averkamp said.

"The balloon had to land some place," said the 56-year-old housewife. "We've never had excitement like this on the place, but it was all over quickly."

AMMAN, Jordan (UP) — The Jordanian government said today it has banned Pakistani pilgrims from travelling across Jordan on their way to Mecca. The ban does not apply to ordinary travellers, visitors or tourists.

IRRADIATED MAN DIES

HIROSHIMA (UP) — Authorities reported the death today of 51-year-old Kosuke Matsuo from what doctors said were the after-effects of the 1945 American atomic bombing of this city. Matsuo lived less than a mile from the city's center at the time of the bombing and had long suffered from leukemia, said to have been caused by atomic radiation.

Highway Dept. Adopts a New Budget

LITTLE ROCK, UP—The Arkansas Highway Commission today adopted a budget totaling $19,914,302 for the 1958 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The Commission also adopted new maximum salaries for department employees, ranging from $18,000 per year for Highway Director Herbert Eldridge, to $1,500 for the lowest classified job.

The budget was broken down with $1,274,033 going to central office administration, $225,150 for district administration, $90,000 for capital outlay, and $1,023,120 for construction administration. A total of $11,088,369 was marked for maintenance, $700,000 for road machinery and equipment, $3,310,280 for engineering, and $1,500,000 for such projects as roadside parks and buildings.

In all, $45,000 was set aside for

Surety Co. Asked to Pay Off Shortage

LITTLE ROCK, UP—The state comptroller's office announced today it was making an official demand on Western Surety Co. for $22,331 stolen from Union County Treasurer Perry A. Long in mid-April.

County Audit Director Aubrey McCasland said a check had established the exact amount of the loss.

Long, a crippled war veteran, told officers he was slugged, bound and robbed while he was alone in his office in El Dorado during the one hour last April 16.

McCasland criticized Long for letting large amounts of money accumulate before making deposits, but added that the records had been kept "neatly and efficiently" during the period covered in the the Highway Commission, director, and administrative assistants for the 12 months beginning next July.

Other central administration funds included $405,000 for retirement matching funds and social security matching funds, $135,345 for equipment and procurement, and $217,760 for accounting.

The ten divisions of the department will have $9,245,410 for maintenance. The remainder of the $11,686,360 under that section of the budget was earmarked for sealing operations, heavy bridge maintenance, signs and center stripes, the Henderson ferry, the central shop and contingencies.

Local Salesman Wins Award

YOUNG CHEVROLET Co. salesman, Lloyd Leverett, was one of the top winners in a nationwide slogan contest sponsored by Chevrolet Motor Division. Mr. Leverett received his award of $500 bond and a bonus prize, a General Electric radio at a zone meeting at Hot Springs. Mr. Leverett has been with the local agency for five years.

Presenting him with a check is C. R. Fike, zone manager. Others at the presentation included J. J. Owens, regional truck manager and H. W. Schoettelkotte, zone truck manager.

receipts of the office be deposited regularly and as near intact as humanly possible. We do not mean to say that the procedure recommended would prevent a holdup or robbery, but at least the amount involved would be negligible if this precaution were followed.

Second Victim in College of Ozarks Feud

CLARKSVILLE (UP)—The three week feud between the president of College of the Ozarks and a social science professor has claimed its second victim.

A 65-year-old education department chairman, Dr. Guy D. Jones, revealed Wednesday his contract will not be renewed next year. College officials said Jones had reached the retirement age, but Jones said it was because he had been "too humbly friendly" with a professor fired April 12 for allegedly writing letters derogatory to the college administration.

The feud between the fired professor, Dr. Charles C. Hamilton, and Dr. Winslow S. Drummond, president of the school began when Drummond called Hamilton into his office and discharged him. Hamilton said Drummond charged he had written letters to the board of trustees of the College which criticized the school's administration.

A request for an injunction to prevent Drummond from interfering with his classes was dismissed in court last Friday by Chancellor Paul X. Williams of Boneville.

Wednesday, Dr. Jones said he was told Tuesday his contract would not be renewed because, as another professor told him, "the president doesn't like you."

Jones accused Drummond of "hiding behind the 85 rule" and said C of O professors do not have to retire until age 70. Dr. Jones, who said his wife collapsed from what physicians said was shock, said "we thought we were here for five more years."

Air Force Plane Sets New Record

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Air Force announced today that its F104 supersonic Star Fighter has set a new world altitude record of 91,249 feet.

The flight was made Wednesday at Palm Dale, Calif.

It broke the previous record of 80,190 feet set last Friday by a French experimental plane, the Trident 06, at Istres, France.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, said the stub-winged Star Fighter, piloted by Maj. Howard C. Johnson, climbed to "a new world altitude record of 91,249 feet."

The previous U.S. altitude record was 70,928 feet established on April 18 of this year by a Grumman F11F fighter. The F104 is built by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and powered by a General Electric J79 engine.

Johnson, 37, Novato, Calif., was in the air for only 27 minutes in Wednesday's flight.

The flight record was officially timed by Charles Logsdon of the National Aeronautics Administration.

"If I get shot in the back, the bullet will have your initials on it."

THE STORY: Milo March, an insurance detective, has been asked to recover a manuscript written by Dr. Jaime Moreno, who opposed the dictator of a Central American republic. Moreno has disappeared. His manuscript, insured for $75,000, also is missing.

CHAPTER II

"Unless you can turn up the manuscript for her, you've got to pay off," I asked.

"Precisely," Martin Raymond said. "Unfortunately, with the possible exception of the refugee group, no one else is looking for the manuscript. They are concentrating on finding Dr. Moreno."

"Suppose," I said, "that the one theory is right and it was the Generalissimo, brave anti-Communist and staunch ally that he is, who put the snitch on the professor and his book. That will mean that I have to go to the Mexican Republic and try to pry it right out of the lion's mouth. What kind of premium would I have to pay if I wanted to take out a little extra life insurance before I go?"

"The rate would be pretty high," he admitted cautiously. "I grunted at him. 'A small problem,' I said. 'What's the name of this lost opus?'"

"The Bloody Reign of Torcido," he said. "Okay, Martin, I'll take it on. The usual one hundred a day and expenses."

"He nodded, looking relieved. 'I said you were the only man for it and I knew you'd pull it off.'"

"Relax, Buster. If Torcido took it, it may be burned by now. And if that's the way the cookie crumbles, you'll have to pay off."

"He winced. 'We are aware of that. But if it's possible to recover it, we feel confident that you'll do it. Milo, now, what do you want? The policy file?'"

"I shook my head. I doubted if there would be anything in it that would be any good to me. 'Just the address and phone number of Mrs. Moreno," I said, "and $500 to cover expenses. If I have to go down there, I'll be drawing more."

He nodded and leaned over his desk, putting one hand in under it. "Get $500 from the cashier," he said, "and bring it in here. Charge to the Moreno case. And bring Mrs. Moreno's address and phone number."

"He was talking into a camouflaged intercom on the desk. Some early American craftsman was probably spinning rapidly in his grave."

"The girl will have it here in a minute," he told me. "When will you start on this, Milo?"

"Right away," I said. "I'm going to take a beautiful girl to lunch, which will put me in the right mood for the job."

A pretty little blonde came in, carrying a small sheaf of bills and a slip of paper. She was a different secretary than had been there the last time I was hired. He seemed to use up secretaries faster than some men did scratch pads.

"I looked at the paper first. It had Mrs. Moreno's name, address and phone number. Then I counted the money. There were 10 $50 bills."

"Pretty," I said. "My favorite vitamin."

Merry was already sitting at the bar when I arrived at the restaurant. She hadn't been there long. I slipped on the stool next to her and she leaned over for me to kiss her. I did.

"It seems to me that you get more beautiful every time I see you," I told her. "His months since I've seen you. WHICH ONE of your houses are you living in at the moment, California, Texas, Florida or Connecticut?"

"At the very moment, the St. Regis," she said, "but I'm going to Connecticut tomorrow. I thought maybe you might like to come up for the week-end."

"I'd love to, but I have to work."

She made a face. "You always have to work."

"We can't all have a lapful of oil wells, honey."

"Why not?" she asked promptly. "All you have to do is marry me and you'll have a lapful of oil wells, too."

"It's a nice offer," I said, "but all that money would scare me. I'd be awakened every morning by the rustling of all those dollar bills. But I appreciate the offer just the same."

She sighed. "Well, I tried."

"An impossible task," I admitted. A vague idea was flitting around in the back of my head. "But there might be something you can do for me."

"What, darling?" she asked. "This job I'm on may take me to the Mexican Republic. If so, it would be better if I didn't go as an insurance investigator. Maybe I can cook up some sort of errand that I'm supposed to be doing for you."

"Anything," she said. After lunch I dropped her at the hotel and made a phone call from the lobby.

I let the answering service know that I was back and then I sat down to worry about the case. I had thought of going over to the public library and looking up the newspaper stories, but I needed a report from the inside. I called somebody I knew on the police. I told him that I wanted the name of the man who had worked on the Moreno case. He promised to call me back.

It didn't take him more than 15 minutes. "Lt. Johnny Rockland of the Bureau of Special Services Investigation," he said. "You want a letter of introduction or something?"

"For once I'm in luck," I said. "I know Johnny myself. Thanks."

I hung up and then I dialed again. I asked for Lieutenant Rockland. I told him I wanted to come down and talk to him about a case.

After that I called Martin Raymond. "Milo," he said when he came on. "How's it going?"

"Let me see," I said. "I've had the case for about two and a half hours. Don't you think you ought to give me another honor or so?"

"Just kidding you, boy," he said. "Someone with a Spanish accent called here just a few minutes ago and wanted to know if we were interested in information about Jaime Moreno. The call was put through to me and I told him you represented us on the matter and to get in touch with you. You ought to be hearing from him soon."

"Great," I said. "The next time somebody wants to do us a good turn, just get his name and phone number instead of giving him mine."

"What's wrong?" he asked. "You just told someone that you're working on the case and you also told them who will be doing the work. If I get shot in the back, the bullet will have your initials on it."

"When I'd hung up I expressed my opinion of vice presidents out loud. That made me feel a little better. When I returned to my office the phone was ringing."

"Yeah," I said. "Senior March?" a voice asked. It was a man's voice, but soft and silky.

"Yeah," I said. "You are a private investigator, yes?" he asked with a strong Spanish accent.

"I'm a private investigator," I said. "I'm an insurance investigator."

"I represent someone who wishes an investigation done."

"What kind of an investigation?"

"It is of a political nature."

"How interesting," I said. "We might make more progress if you provided more information."

"It would mean going to Mexico," he said. "You would start at once. You would be gone perhaps three or four weeks. We would pay you $200 per day and your expenses."

"That's real neighborly of you," I said. "But I'm afraid I'll have to turn it down. I'm already working on a job."

"I know," he said. "We could pay you more perhaps if my offer was too low."

"No, thanks," I said. "I make it a rule to never work on two jobs at once."

When he spoke again, his voice was even softer. "Senior March, it would not be wise of you to try to find Jaime Moreno."

"You mean you don't want me to find Moreno. Why didn't you say so in the beginning?"

"You are not being wise, senior," he said. "If you refuse to be paid in gold, you may have to take payment in another metal."

"Like lead?"

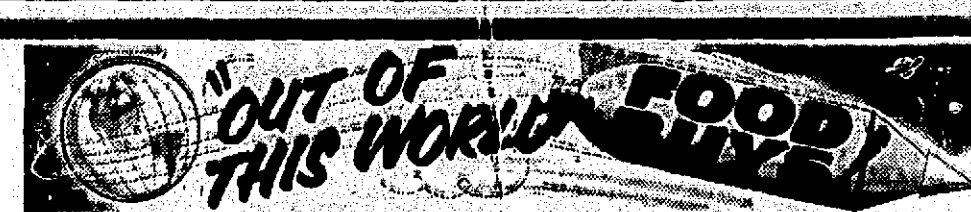

"Perhaps."

"Do you have a name?" I asked. "Or are you afraid to announce it?"

"I am sometimes known as El Nariz."

"I didn't mean anything to me. Although he'd announced it as if it were famous. El Nariz meant The Nose, but that was all as far as I was concerned."

Folsom Quits, Flemming Is Successor

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Marion B. Folsom as secretary of health, education and welfare. He named Dr. Arthur S. Flemming to succeed him.

Flemming, now president of Ohio Wesleyan University, will take over from Folsom late in July if confirmed by the Senate. The President said Flemming's nomination to the Senate at the same time that Folsom's resignation was announced.

Flemming, 52, previously served in the federal government as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization and a member of the Civil Service Commission.

Flemming was a civil service commissioner from 1939 to 1949 and defense mobilizer from 1953 to last March when he returned to his post as university president at Delaware, Ohio.

The United Press had reported in a dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday that Folsom would resign and that Flemming would be named to succeed him.

Folsom resigned for personal reasons.

In an exchange of correspondence with President Eisenhower, the retiring secretary recalled that he told the chief executive last year "that for personal reasons it would be necessary for me to leave government service some time this year."

Folsom, who has been ailing, said the logical time "would seem to be near the close" of this session of Congress "so that the new secretary can participate in planning the budget and legislative program for next year."

Therefore, he said, he was submitting his resignation to become effective at the President's convenience between July 15 and July 31.

The President said that Folsom's "devoted leadership" as secretary of health, education and welfare had made "most difficult" this letter of acceptance of your resignation.

Folsom, former executive of the Eastman Kodak Co., at Rochester, N.Y., came with the Eisenhower administration as under-secretary of the treasury in 1953. Folsom was named to his Cabinet job on Aug. 1, 1955, succeeding Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, first secretary of the newest government department.

Practice Raid Costs Heavy State Damage

CONWAY (UP)—Atomic bombs which "fell" on Blytheville, Little Rock and Fort Smith on Tuesday "killed" more than 30,000 persons. But it was only a paper war and Arkansas's part in the Civil Defense "operation Alert 1958."

State Civil Defense headquarters said more than 15,000 persons would have been killed in the Fort Smith-Van Buren area, and about 15,000 in Little Rock if real nuclear bombs had been dropped.

At Blytheville, evacuation was carried successfully and virtually no deaths would have occurred, the Civil Defense headquarters said.

At 9:05 a.m., Civil Defense got a "flash" "enemy" planes were coming in from Canada. By 9:15, the Civil Defense center here had notified mayors, county judges and Civil Defense co-ordinators throughout Arkansas over its special radio network.

A fallout from the bombs would have contaminated a 20-mile-wide strip from Fort Smith to Beebe and a 20-mile-wide path from Little Rock to Marianna, the C-D said.

Boy Pulls a Huck Finn, Is Rescued

FORT SMITH (UP)—Eugene Brain, 11, pulled a Huck Finn and went for a raft ride on the Arkansas River, but ended up being rescued by the fire department.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brain, was taken from an island in the river Tuesday night about three hours after he and three other boys rode a two-blank raft to the island. He told officers he was stranded when the other boys could not return the raft for him to get back to dry land.

Eugene was shivering when the firemen rowed a boat out after him—he had taken his clothes off on the trip to the island, so they were stranded the companions tossed them to him. But their throw wasn't quite hard enough. The clothes landed in the river and sank.

Nixon Continues U.S. America Visits

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is making it clear that Latin American countries must rely more on private investment than on U.S. government handouts.

Nixon began the second half of his 18-day tour of Latin America today trying to do a real selling job on the advantages of capitalism over Communism.

He told newsmen Tuesday night he was convinced the United States must get its story to the people rather than just the governments.

"There must be a constant, day-by-day effort in which the truth and facts are laid before the people," he said, "because the side of the story is being laid before them very effectively."

Scientists of Navy Soar Into Space

DUBUQUE, Iowa (UP)—Two Navy scientists, who soared in a balloon eight miles into the stratosphere for a telescopic look at the heavens to help pave the way for manned satellites, landed southeast of here today unharmed.

The balloon, launched Tuesday night, came down shortly before 7:30 a.m. c.d.t., about eight miles southeast of here.

The two scientists jumped out of their open basket gondola and gulped down hot coffee after their frigid night-long flight. The men experienced temperatures as low as 76 degrees below zero at the eight-mile altitude.

They left a short time later for Minneapolis where a news conference was scheduled for later this morning.

The scientists were the first to view stars and planets through a telescope in the stratosphere. The experimental flight also tested the reaction of the scientists to the thin air and the cold temperatures of the lower stratosphere.

The Navy billed the flight as a forerunner to observing man in future flights around the earth in a satellite.

The strato-lab gondola balloon was launched from an iron mine pit near Crosby, Minn., at 7:50 p.m. c.d.t., and reached its ceiling altitude of about 42,000 feet at 8:30 p.m., over Mora, Minn.

The men then brought the gondola down slowly during the morning hours, pausing at various altitudes to make further astronomical observations, and then drifted at 11,500 feet awaiting daylight and a chance to land.

The men wore heavy clothing and breathed mechanically supplied oxygen in the rarified stratosphere.

Navy spokesman at Minneapolis, who maintained contact with the scientists via radio, said the flight was "successfully executed with no failures reported in the tests or measurements."

The spokesman said it would take some time to evaluate the scientific data obtained.

Aboard the gondola were Alfred H. Mikesell, an astronomer who became the first man ever to view the heavens through a telescope from above the earth's atmosphere, and Cmdr. M. D. Moss, an atmospheric physicist and pilot of the balloon.

The Navy said another first in the flight, one of a series which have been conducted by the Office of Naval Research, was the extensive equipment aboard to relay the effects of the flight on the men.

Instruments relayed information to ground stations which passed them on to Capt. Norman L. Barr, of the Navy Medical Corps, in Bethesda, Md., on the men's heartbeats, breath sounds, voice reports, pulse rate and respiratory volume.

Barr said when the men ascended from Crosby, their pulses went to 130 per minute but went down to around 100 at 20,000 feet. He said the men's reactions were normal under the conditions, and both reacted about the same.

With the ground station hookup, Barr said he kept check on the men throughout the night and would have known two minutes before if the men showed signs of blacking out.

Two plants, one from General Mills and the other from the University of Minnesota, both of which are cooperating in the tests, followed the balloon during the night.

British to Use Calm Sea Invention

LONDON (UP)—British defense experts today considered capitalizing on an invention that calms the sea by using compressed air under water.

The technique will be demonstrated Friday at Dover for the benefit of War Office officials. One said it could be "of great military use" in submarine landings and provide "portable harbors" wherever they were needed regardless of the weather.

The invention consists of a perforated pipe laid along the seabed. Compressed air shot out of the holes break up surface waves,

Faubus Takes Chance to Appear on TV

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Gov. Orval Faubus accepted a request Tuesday that he appear on a national television program while attending a governors' conference at Miami, Fla.

Faubus told a staff member for the National Broadcasting Company "Today" program he would try to be on the program May 19. He will take part in a panel discussion with one or two other governors and newsmen.

He is to leave for the conference May 17. The meeting is May 18-21.
